

Damascus Road Looking For a Messiah The Blame Game

Recent articles by Mceno Dlamini and Mpumelelo Mkhabela apply.

(News 24)

(

<https://www.news24.com/Columnists/GuestColumn/calling-on-black-professionals-20181129>

https://www.news24.com/Columnists/Mpumelelo_Mkhabela/malema-must-respect-dogs-20181129)

Two events are frequently observed when human history is analyzed. When a community experienced a real or imagined difficulty the following events are set in motion:

1 The search for a rescuer.

2 The of the "Blame Game"

Once a something or someone or something to blame is identified , the " Blame Game" begins.

3. The Scapegoat emerges.

A rescuer usually identifies whom to blame and turns ithe identified object or objects into scapegoats. The rest is history. Revolutions, civil wars, wars between nations and countries, destruction and increased human suffering are the usual results.

Sometimes or rather frequently the Scapegoat or Scapegoats are attacked .

On other occasions people (usually VIPs.) also play the Blame Game' against their opponents, in attempts to discredit their opponents , to divert attention from their own shortcomings and wrongdoings . This is a very common political tactic.

The Blame Game is a root cause of tribalism, xenophobia and racism.

One of the articles mentioned in the introduction is identifying a possible rescuer for SA's poor in the form of "educated professionals " and also identifies possible entities to blame in the Blame Game.

It is important to notice that nowhere is it stated that those named in the Blame Game' are innocent or guilty regarding the issues they are blamed for. A history check will revealed that the Blame Game's choices ranked from the completely innocent to the severely guilty regarding the reasons they are blamed for.

Innocent or guilty, the result is frequently street justice and loss of life, property and infrastructures. It is not uncommon for the Blame Game to be followed by chaos and a loss of the rule of law.

The Blame Game' is a recipe for destruction!!!!!!

The other article mentioned in the introduction mentioned the effect of Damascus Roads events.

The Damascus road refer to the well known Damascus road experience of the Christian Apostle, Paul, as describe in Acts 9 , Acts 22.and Actts 26.

It dramatically shnged Paul's life and even his name from Saulus to Paulus.

This brings us to an important solution that our secular society seems to ignore or to play down. It change Paul's life completely from an admired Jewish scholar to a complete outclass from his Jewish roots.

Why?

Was it because he met the real Messiah? The Messiah who was rescuer and a blamed Scapegoat at the same time. The Messiah's Scapegoat role indicate the fallacy of the unforgiving destructive blame game. The Messiah took all the blames on himself to relief humans form the burdon of the evil Blame Game.

The ones who believe that Paul met the real Messiah and accept the Messiah as their rescuer will stop blaming and looking for scapegoats.

They will start labouring for reconciliation among their fellow humans, encouraing them to stop blaming each other for past events. They will however be hated and ridiculed by the ones who thrive on the evil fruits of the Blame Game.

Who believes the message?. To whom was the arm (power) of the Eternal revealed? The ones that don't believe will continue to play the destructive 'Blame Game'.

It is written somewhere by someone at the end of a revolution: " Now we had the revolution for which I sacrificed my life. What a disappointment. All that changed is the faces of the meat eaters. The rest of us are still eating potatoes ." In other words, revolutions only change the elite thus paving the way for another revolution.

The same applies to the Blame game, it is a continuous destructives force , continuously creating new things to blame.

A last remark, Paul used his knowledge about the Hebrew scriptures as evidence that he met the real Messiah and that the prophecies about Messiah was fulfilled by Jesus. His death and resurrection are fulfilled prophesies..

Find the real Messiah and stop blaming. He took all the blaming and its evil consequences upon himself.

History have a tendency to repeat itself without the Messiah. South Africa is no exception!!!!!!

